DEMOCRATIC CITY COMMITTEE MISREPRESENTED

Committee Did Not Vote to Turn Mayor Badger Down.

The statement made in a local paper that the democratic city committee at a meeting had decided to turn Mayor D. W. Badger down was an uncalculated attack and according to a member of the committee an absolute falsehood.

Said he: "The committee, as a whole, with but a single exception, was in favor of running Mr. Badger as he was considered the strongest candidate. The fact was presented that Mr. Badger had sent word through the chairman that he would not accept a re-nomination."

In justice to the mayor and in accordance with democrats who believe in fair play, the Herald prints the above facts.

DIPLOMATS FEAR BREAK

Wilson Said to be Considering Raising Arms Embargo.—Heavy Run Made on the Banks in Mexico City

Washington, Nov. 10.—Developments in the Mexican situation here today tended to emphasize a purpose on the part of the Washington government to refuse to recognize any of the acts of the new Mexican congress and brought to light the fact that serious consideration was being given by President Wilson to the question of permitting exportations of arms to all factions in the southern republic.

Secretary Bryan had a long conference with Senor Alvarado, charge d'affaires of the Mexican embassy, during which it is understood he said the United States considered the election of congressmen equally as invalid as the voting for president and vice president.

The secretary summoned the ministers from five central American countries, and outlined to them in general what had been done in the United States in its diplomatic parties with the Huerta government. Later he announced that he also had been in communication with the diplomatic representatives of the European powers and had informed them in general terms of the steps taken by the United States thus far.

Wire Home Governments.

It was reported that some of those diplomats transmitted long dispatches to their home governments today describing the situation as approaching closer to a complete break in relations between the United States and Mexico than at any time since the Mexican problem became troublesome.

The state department made public today Huerta's statement to the

TRAINMEN WIN WAGE ADVANCE

Controversy Ended and $6,000,000 Increase in Wages Will be Distributed Annually Among 100,000 Employees East of the Mississippi

New York, Nov. 10.—The long lived controversy between railroads of the east and their conductors and trainmen over the latter's demands for more pay ended tonight.

The employees win an increase averaging 7 per cent and totalling $6,000,000 annually—about half of what they wanted from October 1, effective for one year. One hundred thousand men will share in the increase.

Thus ends by arbitration under the Newlands amendment to the Bradley act, a controversy that threatened at one stage of its career to tie up the strike transportation by rail in all states east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio-and-area with a population of 47,000,000.

The award of the arbitration commission filed into this afternoon, in the federal district court is binding and final. To its terms however, the two board representatives of the employees filed a minority report and the two representatives of the 41 railroads a dissenting opinion.

Based on Living Cost

In reaching its award the board ruled mainly against its employees on four out of five points submitted by them as reasons why the increase should be granted and found for them.

40 ARE DROWNED IN LAKE HURON

Gale Hits Freighter Overturning Her When Cargo Shifts.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 10.—A large steel freighter, overturned, was found floating in Lake Huron today, about eight miles northeast of Port Huron. Captain Reid of the wrecking crew which located her, arrived here tonight and said her name had not been learned when he left the scene. It is believed she was abandoned during the terrible gale which swept the lake yesterday.

Captain Reid said a heavy sea was running when the freighter was found, and there was no distinguishing mark to identify her. There are a number of large steel boats similar in appearance to the derelict plying the lakes, and the wrecking company has not been notified that any boat was abandoned.

Captain Reid said he believed the steamer to be a 600-footer, and that she had carried a crew of about 40 men. "I have no doubt," he said, "that every soul on board has been lost."

The wreck lies in the path of steamers navigating Lake Huron, and Captain Reid said his tug would stand by all night to warn passing vessels of the danger. No attempt, he said, would be made to go alongside the derelict until daylight.

The water where the wreck lies is about 60 feet deep.

The stern is submerged, while the bottom of the forward part of the ship projects above the surface.

Petitions have been circulated asking for a public hearing which may be granted.

No session of the district court was held this morning.

Bryan Makes Public Text of Huerta's Statement.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Bryan tonight made public the text of the note presented by the Huerta provisional government last night to the foreign diplomats in Mexico City. The note which was signed Querido Madero, minister of foreign relations, follows in part:

"In conformity with provisions of article 81 of the constitution and in view of the lack of a president or vice president and of the secretary of state and the department of foreign relations, provisional presidency devolved upon the secretary of state and of the department of government General Victoriano Huerta, who from the time by the ministry of the law has discharged the duties of the office. Thus, in accord with the will of the Mexican people formally made manifest in the constitution of February 5, 1857, there remained established the presidential succession and the unquestionable legality of the present government.

The congress of the union and the supreme court of justice of the nation solemnly recognized within the objection the new ruler. In this way the three branches of the government continued the functions by which conduct the Mexican people exercise the national sovereignty in accordance with articles 3 and 60 of the same constitution.

Executive Calls Elections

In compliance with the program the executive launched a call for elections, taking care that this should be fixed for their holding a time which is deemed prudent, not only that the preparatory work might be carried out but also that the republic might return to a state of order which had been deeply disturbed in some of the northern frontier states and also although in a much less degree, in other states. Acting in accord with the initiative of the executive and in compliance with the constitutional precept quoted the congress of the union convoked special elections to be held on October 26th past, when it was believed that by that time peace successfully would be established in all the republics and full elections guaranteed. Of these proposals the executive made clear his respect for the other governmental powers, but unfortunately, one of the houses of the legislative power, the chamber of deputies, attempted in such manner to invade the prerogatives of the executive as to refuse in some cases to recognize the judicial power and the conduct of the members who are excluded by their nonconstitutional exemption from arrest publicly were fomenting and even leading the armed rebellion resolved such a power as to make impossible any monious action without which any government would go to pieces. That the president of the republic was forced to resolve in absolute the chamber of deputies as a necessary measure for the salvation of the republic, forcing as he did the state of anarchy which inevitably would have been brought about if it had continued to delay revolution in the midst of one of the constituted branches of the government, and as he senate alone could not function constitutionally he declared the congress dissolved.

Constitutes New Congress

But as it has never been the proposal of the executive to govern outside the constitution he took care immediately to convolve elections to constitute a new congress and solely in the meantime assumed extraordinary faculties in the departments of Hacienda, Interior and War, and this was done with the promise to give account of the use which he has made of such power to the new congress as soon as it shall be installed.

The elections of president and vice president of the republic and of deputies and senators to the congress of the union already have been held. Congress will be installed within a few days and in accord with the constitution will pass upon the election of president and vice president.

GRIDIRON FOES WHO WILL MEET IN THE PRINCETON-YALE GAME NOV. 15

The Yale and Princeton gridiron experts will struggle for supremacy Nov. 15 at New Haven. The Jersey Tiger will attempt to swallow the Yale Bulldog. Captain Ketcham of Yale says he has a much stronger team now than he had earlier in the season, when smaller colleges humbled Yale's pride by decisive defeats. Captain Baker of Princeton is a swift running halfback who is feared by the Yale eleven owing to his skill in running back punts. Swart and Trenkman are two sturdy forwards who are counted on to hold back Yale's attack through the line.

Two of Yale's reliable line men are Cooney and Warren. They will break through Princeton's defense and smash plays in their formation unless the Jersey forwards are on the lookout.

DRYDEN AND BURNS WON THEIR WRESTLING MATCHES

A crowd of over six hundred people saw two rattling good wrestling matches at Freeman's hall on Monday evening, when Farmer (Bill) Dryden returned to the mat, and with him in a star hunt was Cyclone Burns of Boston, a popular favorite and one of the best men in the world.

It was a crowd typical of last year, with a big sprinkling of professional and business men for the last year it was a high grade audience, who appreciate good, clean wrestling.

Dryden met young Siegerstedt, the middle weight champion of Austria and Germany, and he is as clever a man at his weight as has been seen on the local mat with the possible exception of Joe Turner, but on the other hand he is far more powerful than Turner. He is about ten or twelve pounds lighter than Dryden and this is a big advantage with clever men, and both are all of that. It was Dryden's first match since he was injured last spring and he is in perfect condition. His hard work on his farm has kept him down to proper weight and if anything he looks in better shape than last winter and just as powerful, for there were several occasions where this ponderous strength was needed to clear himself from the German's powerful holds. The German is a wonderful strong chap who wrestles very clean and the match was well worth seeing.

Dryden repeatedly had him in what looked like sure falls when he would wiggle out or tear himself loose by main strength. Dryden won the first fall in 35 minutes, 35 seconds, with a full body and arm bar. The second fall he won in 17 minutes, 40 seconds, on a similar hold.

Burns Had a Hard Match

Cyclone Burns undoubtedly the best man at his weight in the world, had his work cut out for him, when he met Walter Bonebrake, the Polk's light heavy weight. He had about ten or fifteen pounds on Burns, and this with his wonderful strength, made him a tough proposition to handle. He is not as clever as Burns but for his build remarkably fast. He has a short powerful neck and a regular prize fighter's down, so that neck holds and head seizures were useless with him. It was undoubtedly the best match ever seen here, for after they had been going ten minutes, even Burns most ardent admirers were willing to admit that he had met a tangle, and he was lucky if he won. He probably Burns would have him in what was apparently a good hold only to have him tear himself loose, and at times he had Burns in distress. Both men worked hard and fast, but in the end Cyclone won him down and secured the first fall in 35 minutes, 40 seconds, on an arm bar and a body seizure. The second fall came at the expiration of 9 minutes, 20 seconds, with a toe hold.

At the conclusion of the match Bonebrake through an interpreter challenged Burns for another match for $100 side bet with the toe hold barred and Burns announced that he would cover the $100.

Dryden will meet Jim Pauling, on Monday, Nov. 24, if the Greek is of the same mind about wishing a match. At the same time Cyclone Burns who will remain here with Dryden for the next two weeks, will wrestle some man of his own weight.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Teaspoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Back Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free their blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and they feel like lumps of lead, and you have aching pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or the acid is irritating, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach, rheumatism in bad weather get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

WAR'S LATEST WEAPON

Italy is giving official attention to what may develop into a most amazing and terrible weapon to be used in war. It is the F-ray, the mysterious force with which the young engineer Clutia Ulvi has been exploding submerged mines without the use of wires Ulvi's claims with reference to his invention are extraordinary, but they have been given credence by the U. S. Consul John Ball Osborne of Havre, France, who witnessed certain apparently marvelous demonstrations of the power of the F-ray.

The experiments took place outside the harbor of Havre a few weeks ago. Different kinds of powder were placed in hermetically sealed receptacles 50 feet and submerged at intervals from approximately nearly 2000 feet up to nearly four miles from the yacht on which Ulvi stood with his apparatus. When all was ready Ulvi touched a button and one after another at will all the mines were exploded. There was perfect accord between the discharging station and the floating markers over the mine. On another day a mine was sunk fourteen miles from Ulvi's yacht and blown up by the wire less current. The inventor at every Once I loaned a man five dollars in the confidence of youth.

For I felt that I'd keep a loyal friend; He said he'd pay it Thursday, and I thought he told the truth.

But that day our sweet acquaintance reached an end. 'Twas a very sound investment the disposal of that V.

That I let him have so very long ago.

For now I am a skeptic—when they come around to me—

Every Tom and Dick and Harry that I know.

I can say with feeling "No" just as you asked and go. For I want to keep your friendship don't you see?

Do not make me close and cold that this small loan I withheld.

For your friendship is a precious thing to me.

Once I introduced a fellow to a maiden I adored.

For she asked me who he was and if I would; And as soon as she had met him she she threw me overboard.

Presumably to show me where I stood.

I have never been quite sorry that she treated me that way.

Because it made my future actions clear.

And now if any maiden should smile winningly and say—

"You know him! Won't you introduce him dear?"

I can say with feeling "No" in a hurry—got to go!

I'm sorry to refuse a thing so small; Do you think I mean you know that I have to treat you so—

The cuss is not worth knowing after all!

QUICK THOUGHT NEEDED.

Presence of Mind of Airmen in Perilous Situations.

If an airman once loses control of his machine his fate is as good as sealed. Yet there are some men who pluckily, so wonderfully full of resource, that even in the most awful dilemmas they never lose their heads, but will snatch at any desperate chance and somehow manage to come out unhurt.

Scabbling is such a man. In July last, relates Pearson's Weekly, he was flying with a passenger and had reached a height of fully 1000 feet when a gust of wind caught his plane. There was a short snap. One of the levers controlling the planes had broken.

over then jump wide, landing on his feet. It was exactly in this fashion that the well-known airwoman, Madame de Laroche, saved her life at Rheims. Her machine was brought down by the "wash" of another airplane passing too close, and she managed to keep her head and jump clear. Monsieur Le Lion, by his quickness and cleverness on one occasion saved not only his own life, but those of a number of other people.

This was at the Doncaster flying meet three years ago. It may be remembered that the weather was very bad; Le Lion was flying in a gale when a heavy gust surging behind the monoplane swung it broadside on, heading off to the right.

He tried to regain his line of flight, round. Then he descended quickly. But by this time he was almost on the rails bordering the course. He touched earth at 40 miles an hour.

Immediately in front were the white posts and rails flanked by a ditch. Le Lion was equal to the emergency. He jerked forward his elevating lever and, like a horse rising at a fence, the plane jerked forward and over the obstacle. But now a worse peril confronted him. He found himself charging at the speed of an express train straight for the parked ranks of spectators.

Again he threw himself on his steering column and swung it over, leaning his body forward. With a great swoop the plane leaped into the air. So close was it to the crowd that the wind of its passage sent hats flying this way and that. But it rose—rose to 50 feet, and then came hurtling down. The wheels crumpled, the propeller flew in fragments. But no one was hurt.

NO DANGER OF EXTERMINATION

Washington, Nov. 10.—Fearing that the fishing industry might be ruined by the immense catches of menhaden or bories, used in the manufacture of oil and fertilizer, seems to be dispelled by a report from the United States Fish Commission, which declares the supply of menhaden does not appear to be diminishing.

The menhaden, which is food for other fish, is exceedingly prolific, and it is thought in spite of the big catches of this fish all along the Atlantic coast that the future supply is in no danger.

The present season is not over, but figures just prepared for last year show that 6,050,000 gallons of oil and $8,000 tons of fertilizer were made from the menhaden. This was valued at $3,700,000.

NAVY PRAISED FOR TRAINING POLICE

The November issue of The Fleet Review the magazine published each month by the enlisted men of the United States Navy contains a sketch of Inspector John E. Dwyer of the New York police force, the officer who commands the district surrounding Times square. This is the most important inspection district in the city.

"The police and fire departments in our great city," says the Review, "are always glad to obtain men who have had the splendid training afforded by an enlistment in the navy. This is especially true of New York city, whose police force is one of the best efficient in the world. This department has drawn some of its best men from the naval and military forces. Among the ex-man-of-war men who have made good in the army for the protection of New York city the navy has reason to be especially proud of John E. Dwyer, who has reached the rank of inspector in the police department, and whose devotion to duty and honest and impartial enforcement of the law have made him famous. He is popularly known as the 'Sailor Cop' or the 'Honest Cop.'"

DR. S. W. JONES SOON TO BE APPOINTED COLLECTOR

Washington, Nov. 10.—It now seems practically certain that the heretofore unexplained delay in presenting the name of Dr. Seth W. Jones for collector of customs at Portsmouth is caused by the temporary absence from Washington of Senator Johnson of Maine.

Charles R. Davis of Senator Johnson's home town of Waterville is also a candidate for the office, and has the warm support of Senator Johnson, both from a personal and political standpoint. They are friends and neighbors, and have pulled together for Democratic success for many years. As the district embraces Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, it is easily seen that Senator Johnson's opposition to the Jones appointment might be a serious matter. Vermont seems to be taking no part in the matter.

It is believed here that New Hampshire will retain the office but that Senator Johnson will see to it that Mr. Davis is not left out in the cold, and some position will be offered him before the matter is settled. Senator Johnson is expected to return here next week.

In reply to a question Senator Hollis this week stated that there is no friction between himself and the members of congress from New Hampshire regarding federal patronage, for that state. Mr. Hollis asserts that the former custom will be adhered to and that the higher positions will be named by himself, and the postoffice remains in the hands of the representatives.

AN OFFICER WITH A USEFUL RECORD

Colonel Alexander O. Brodie Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's friend, who organized the Arizona division of the Rough Riders at the outbreak of the Spanish War, and who on the promotion of Colonel Roosevelt to the command of the regiment became its lieutenant colonel, will retire from the army on next Friday.

Colonel Brodie will be sixty-four years old on that day, the age limit, and when he departs from his desk in the War Department he will have served forty-three years in the army, exclusive of four years at West Point. Colonel Brodie is a New Yorker, and was a student at St. Lawrence University when in 1866 he received an appointment to the United States Military Academy, from which he was graduated in June, 1870. No officer in the army has had a more picturesque career. On his graduation from West Point he was assigned to the First Cavalry and joined his regiment just in time to take part in the campaign then being waged against the Apaches in Arizona. In that campaign a detachment of troopers under Brodie was ambushed by the Indians, and it was not until after eight hours of stubborn fighting that Brodie extricated himself, and with what was left of his command, made his way to the main column. For three years Colonel Brodie served in Arizona. In 1873 he was ordered to Washington Territory, where he took part in another campaign. The enemy this time was the Nez Perce Indians. In 1875 Colonel Brodie resigned from the army, and, returning east, entered business in New York, but at the end of a few years he became a rancher in Kansas. Wearying of the cattle business he became a miner in Arizona.

In 1883 he reentered the army, not as an officer, but in the ranks as a trooper in the Sixth Cavalry. For a little more than a year he served as a private, and then left the army on leave for civil life. He made Arizona his home for several years after that, and in February, 1890, the newspapers printed a story that he had been drowned when the Walnut Dam gave way in that state. But Brodie was very much alive, and when next heard from he was the Republican candidate for delegate in Congress. He was defeated.

Then came the Spanish War. Colonel Brodie was mustered into service as one of the two majors of the Roosevelt organization. In the action at Las Guasimas he was wounded, and his condition became so serious that he was sent to New York for treatment in the Fort Wadsworth Hospital. In 1892 he was made governor of Arizona, and served until 1895, when President Roosevelt brought him to Washington and commissioned him a major of regulars. In August of that year he was promoted to colonel and assigned to duty in the adjutant general's office in addition to his service against the Indians in the West and the Spaniards in Cuba. Colonel Brodie also served from 1895 until 1897 in the Philippines, and was from 1897 until 1911 the adjutant general of the Western division of the army, with headquarters in San Francisco.

ONLY FOUR HUNDRED NEEDED

Washington, Nov. 10.—Applications from persons who want to help the Treasury Department collect the $100,000,000 in hopes to raise through the income tax are flowing into the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Osborn at the rate of 100 per day. Since the tariff bill, with the tax provision in it, was signed by the President, more than 4000 applications have been received and they still are pouring in.

Deputy collectors, agents and minor employees to be appointed to collect the millions amount in number only to about 400, so it is probable that more than 30 applicants out of every 100 will be disappointed.

WANTS FOREIGN BIDS FOR SUBMARINES

Efforts have been made by Mr. Daniels, the Secretary of the Navy, to induce several French and German submarine manufacturers to submit bids for four submarine torpedo boats. The bids will be opened at the Navy Department on Dec. 2. Mr. Daniels has had considerable correspondence on the subject, and hopes the foreign firms will submit bids. This action is in accordance with the policy of the department of obtaining greater competition for contracts. An arrangement has been made by the Navy Department for the completion by the Government of submarines G-2 and G-3 now under construction by the Lake Torpedo Boat Company.

Bridgeport, Conn., Because of financial difficulties the Lake Company asked the department to take over the work. The Lake Company has contracts for three other submarines, the L-60 L-61 and L-62, on which no work has been done. These contracts will be held in abeyance. In view of the inability of the Lake Company to complete the submarines, they contracted to build it is unlikely that it will submit bids for the new submarines.

STIFF REQUIREMENTS TO BE ARMY AVIATOR

Washington, Nov. 10.—What forces the Army General Staff believes necessary for the defense of the Panama Canal and Hawaii "that those persons so vitally important to the United States, may be securely held at all times," is revealed in estimates submitted to the House, asking appropriation of a little more than $3,000,000.

Three regiments of infantry, one squadron of cavalry, one battalion of field artillery, 12 companies of coast artillery and an aviation company are asked for the Canal Zone.

Six regiments of infantry, one battalion of engineers, one regiment of cavalry, one regiment of field artillery, one battalion of heavy field artillery, one aviation company and 13 companies of coast artillery are asked to hold the Hawaiian Islands.

FIREGRAPHS

There is a rumor that the chief of Newcastle is to assist George in presenting his play on the stage and with his force of fire fighters are to give an exhibition of fire fighting up to date the life net included.

Engle's has come back and the boys think it will be able to deliver the goods.

Forty-one years ago today this engine was at the great fire in Boston. The firemen all seem to think it the proper place to keep a steamer among a lot of horses and away back in the corner.

The board of health should visit this house some cold day when it has to be kept closed in order to keep warm.

Last evening the Keewauke Co. celebrated the return of their steamer and entertain a few guests at their station.

TO APPEAR AT THE MIDDLE STREET CHURCH

The Manchester Union has the following to say about Mrs. Prescott who will lecture at the Middle street Baptist church in December:

Mrs. Prescott's address was a gem of oratory, sparkling with wit and happy illustration. It suffrage prevailed in New Hampshire, we would nominate Mrs. Prescott for Congress and she would be a worthy successor to the able men who have represented New Hampshire there.

Health Restored by Eckman's Alternative

Glandular trouble, very frequently accompanied by rheumatism, is the cause of the disease known as "Eckman's Alternative" which often treatment did not bring relief. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which during the past fifteen years has brought about many recoveries even in a number of cases where the disease had been supposed to be incurable. It is a "Gentle" in March, 1907, my doctor pronounced my case "Tuberculosis of the Glands" and he recommended that I should be put in a hospital to be treated. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alternative. The results in my case were so good that I was able to leave the hospital when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving. I was able to sleep, I continued to improve. I was well, which was in November, 1910. On November 11, 1910, I started to work and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alternative to anyone who is suffering from Glandular trouble. (Above abbreviated, more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be the most effective remedy for every throat and lung affection, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomach Trouble and in all the various forms of glandular trouble, and is a powerful blood-purifier, and a powerful tonic. For sale by all leading druggists and in Portsmouth by Benjamin Green.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS NOT LIVING UP TO AGREEMENTS

Washington, Nov. 10.—Sec. Garrison has discovered that the agricultural colleges established under the Morrill act of 1862 have not been living up to the law which requires them to include military training in their curriculum, in return for aid from the public treasury. It is probable Mr. Garrison will make important recommendations on this subject to Congress next month, in an effort to obtain a greater return to the Government for the money it spends.

There are many of these colleges, in all parts of the country, at which army officers are on duty as military instructors. While the act of 1862 provides for military instruction, it is defective in that it does not establish in definite terms the duties of the college authorities; also, no penalty is provided for failure to live up to the act's requirements.

Sec. Garrison believes these colleges should become training schools for young officers, for appointment in a volunteer army in time of war. He also believes the graduates of these schools, properly trained in a preliminary way during their course, could serve with profit in the regular army for a year after graduation. Then they would comprise an excellent body of commissioned reservists.

Where Will the Railroad Wage War End?

The trainmen have won another victory and are granted a 6 per cent. increase in wages, while the stockholders of the New England roads are deprived of dividends and receivership is threatened. Isn't there some mistake in judgment somewhere? And just what is to be the end?—are questions that are being asked and with no satisfactory answer. The making of such matters a sort of political question—that is, men are sitting as judges and arbitrators who have political aspirations, which is all wrong. If $6 to $10 per day for engineers and conductors is not fair pay, why an injustice is being done men of the skilled trades in New England. Where will this all end?

Favors the Dealer.

For the consumer there is the question of whether the benefit is to be delivered to him and the answer from the markets up to the present time is not encouraging. The prevailing prices of farm products in Canada are so far below those in all of the United States that an immediate reduction would be expected to result from the importation, but this is not yet apparent and the conclusion is that the market trade is so well organized that the benefits are to go to the dealer and in very small measure to the consumer.—Lawrence American.

Gardner Largely to Blame.

For this humiliating failure of the republicans to maintain the lead they established last year over the progressives in this state, Mr. Gardner is largely to blame. His sincerity is unquestioned, but his leadership was execrable. The immigration issue, which had no proper place in the contest, cost him thousands of votes in a state where an immense proportion of the population is foreign born or the children of foreign born. His needless attack on the republican state committee, which had been chosen in the primaries, wiped out the efficiency of the party organization.—Springfield Republican.

The Whipping Post for the Mashers.

The whipping post, as the proper punishment for mashers, is advocated by the Rev. Dr. James Shera Montgomery. Discussing love and flirtation, he said: "Love is infinitely higher and diviner than a plaything. A masher stands for the impoverishment of mind, body and soul, and the word means at last an open grave of fluff and feathers—the black mire of mad and unbridled passions." We agree with Dr. Montgomery and suggest that Portsmouth should exterminate this specie of man. Congress street is his headquarters every evening from 7.30 until 10 p. m.

Take City Affairs Out of Politics.

As the time for the flogging of the city election draws near this paper once more renews its suggestion that the business of the city should be transacted without any reference to party or parties. It is time that our citizens get together in city affairs and wiped out party lines and selected men for political office without regard to their political beliefs. Why not set an example for others in this matter? Let's make the election in December non-political.

Good Men Are Needed.

With the advent of the coming election it behooves our citizens to select men for the city council who are representative citizens—men who represent property interests and have the interest of the city at heart. The financial condition of our city requires that men of good sound judgment, who will guard safely the interest of the city and not squander its money on needless expenditures, should be selected this year.

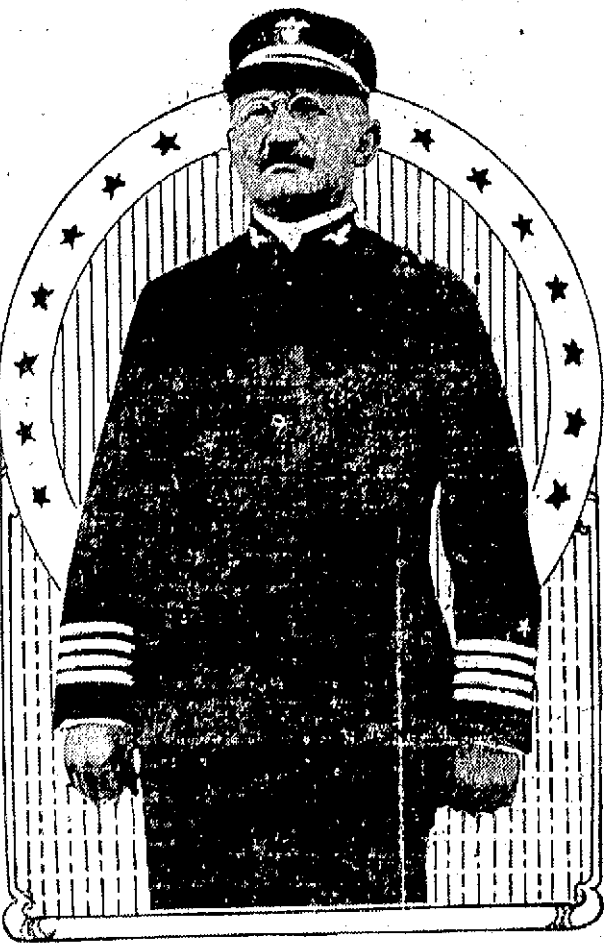

Pupils on a Strike.

Over in the neighboring town of South Berwick seventy pupils of the grammar school on Monday went on a strike, because Henry C. Knight had been replaced as principal of the school. They paraded the streets announcing that they would not return until Knight had been reinstated. To an outsider it would seem as though a little parental discipline could be applied in this town to good advantage.

A Commendable Stand.

The boys of the Malden High school have taken a stand that it would be well for other high school pupils to emulate. They have agreed to abstain from the use of tobacco in any form during their school term. This is certainly a commendable stand in these days when the average school youth feels that his school equipment is not complete unless it includes a box of cigarettes.

Asks for Retirement.

After thirty-eight years of service Major General William T. Biddle, commandant of the Marine Corps, has applied for voluntary retirement under the thirty years' service law. Major General Biddle has been commandant of the corps since February 3, 1911. He would not have been relieved for age until December 17, 1917.

The application for retirement has not yet been acted on by Mr. Daniels, the Secretary of the Navy, and his successor has not been chosen.

Major General Biddle has had a total service of seventeen years and six months and twenty years' shore duty. He was born in Philadelphia, Pa., December 17, 1853, and entered the service as a second lieutenant in June, 1875. In 1880 he made a forced march at the head of a detachment of marines and sailors from Chemulpo to Seoul, Korea, to protect the American legation.

Major General Biddle commanded the marines on Admiral Dewey's flagship during the battle of Manila Bay, and in the Boxer uprising commanded the first regiment of marines during the march from Tientsin to Peking for the relief of the foreign legations. He commanded the marines in the battle of Yang-Tsun and in the fighting in the vicinity of Peking.

Colonel Lincoln Krumm, commanding the marine barracks at Washington, will be strongly urged to succeed Major General Biddle. Colonel Krumm entered the service in September, 1877. During the Spanish-American war he served on the battleship Iowa.

Another formidable candidate is Colonel Littleton W. T. Waller, commanding the marine barracks at Mare Island, who is the senior colonel of the corps. He is the only officer of his grade who has been advanced for conspicuous bravery during the Spanish-American war.

Want Four New Battleships.

The Board of Directors of the Navy League of the United States, meeting in the Union League Club Monday evening, adopted a resolution urging upon President Wilson and the House of Representatives the importance of authorizing the immediate construction of four new battleships of the first class. SMITH GOES TO PRISON FOR TAKING FOOD

Boston, Nov. 9.—For stealing two sandwiches from a workman's dinner pail Frederick Smith was sent to the house of correction on Deer Island for eight days by Judge Drake in the Charlestown police court today.

Smith pleaded: "I've been out of work for three weeks, your honor—and on my uppers. I was hungry and I took the sandwiches because I had to eat."

Judge Drake, in imposing sentence, said:

"You should work and earn your food. It is a serious offense to steal the noon day lunch of a man who works all day."

WORTH KNOWING.

The average duration of human life is about 55 years. One quarter of the people on the earth die before the age of 5, one half before the age of 16, and only about one person out of each 100 born lives to 65.

The American experience of moroseality shows the expectation of life, as follows:

At 10 years—49 years longer.
At 20 years—42 years longer.
At 30 years—36 years longer.

THE POOR VOTER ON ELECTION DAY

The proudest now is but my peer,
The highest not more high;
Today of all the weary year,
A king of men am I.
Today, alike are great and small,
The nameless and the known;
My palace is the people's hall,
The ballot box my throne!

Who serves today upon the list
Beside the served shall stand;
Alike the brown and wrinkled fist,
The gloved and dainty hand!
The rich is level with the poor,
The weak is strong today!
And sleekest broadcloth counts no more
Than homespun frock of gray.

Today, let pomp and vain pretense
My stubborn right abide;
I get a plain man's common sense
Against the pedant's pride.
Today shall simple manhood try
The strength of gold and lava.
The wide world has not wealth to buy
The power in my right hand!

While there's grief to seek redress,
Or balance to adjust,
Where weights are living manhood less
Than Mammon's vilest dust,
While there's a right to need my vote,
A wrong to sweep away,
Up! clouted knee and ragged coat!
A man's a man today!
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

on the fifth—the increased cost of living. Since 1909 when last an increase was granted, the arbitrators found that the cost of living had increased 7 per cent.

Certain other contentions embraced within the other four points were conceded to the employees. It was therefore more than a coincidence that the increase granted in wages is exactly the increase in the cost of living as outlined by documents introduced by the employees to uphold their contention.

The board does not found its action entirely upon the increased cost of living, reads the award, a document of 75 printed pages, though it looks upon this as basic.

Without attempting to standardize the rates of pay between railroad employees of the East and the West, the board asserts its belief that it is desirable but not possible at the present time. As to this the award voices the opinion that congress should make an inquiry as to whether there is any longer a substantial reason for the maintenance of the two sections.

Reduce Wages to Science

"Such an inquiry not to result in a recommendation," reads the award, "if it is found that such a differential ought to exist as to what the differential should be. Those making the inquiry should be empowered to report upon existing wage scales in all territories for the purpose of ascertaining if possible, a scientific basis for the payment of railroad employees who operate trains. This suggestion does not contemplate that the body making such inquiry should attempt to fix wages."

It is suggested that the commission on industrial relations recently appointed by President Wilson might be empowered to carry out the suggested inquiry.

Analysis of the vote on each article submitted by the trainmen reveals an almost unbroken rebellion between the two representatives of the employees and the two independent members of the board with the railroad representatives opposing them. The articles are dealt with separately in the award and fix the pay for various classifications of labor.

While technical in verbiage, they provide chiefly that the monthly pay of employees in the passenger branch of the service shall be as follows: Conductors, $135; baggage men, $82.50; flagmen and rear brakemen, $78.50; brakemen, $76.50; overtime per hour, conductors, 45 cents; assistant conductors and ticket collectors, 35 cents; brakemen, 25 cents.

For the freight service the following are the chief awards:

Through runs, conductors, 4 cents a mile; flagmen, 2.67 cents a mile, brakemen, 2.67 cents a mile, and run less than a hundred miles to be paid for as if it were a hundred miles. In way-freight, pick-up or drop, time and transportation service, same minimum conductors are awarded $4.50 a day of 100 miles or less, 10 hours or less; flagmen $3.10, and brakemen, $3.00; overtime to be paid for as time and one half.

This was one of the few instances in which the employees triumphed in their demand that overtime be paid for at one and one half times the regular rate. The award is distinctly against such practice in most instances. To this finding the employees' representatives filed a minority report of protest.

"We dissent from this award," reads the railroad's representatives' report, "because standardization is chimerical and uneconomic, because such increased cost of living has occurred is not sufficient to justify the increase demanded; because statistics prove that risk has decreased and the weight

CURRENT OPINION

Modern Craze for Speed Proves That We Have Come to Be a Bad Lot.

It is the obvious fact that you are going too quick. You are cursed with the delirium of speed and a speed along the paths of the most vile materialism.

Now, what does this involve? It means that if you bolt your food—most impolitely bolt your food—you'll disorganize gastronomic functions. Nationally you are bolting terrifically, and you are in the throes of economic indigestion.

The old definition of speed hits off the whole situation. For what is speed but a means by which you miss as much as possible between the point of departure and the point of arrival? When as a child you ate your candies as fast as possible so as to get them all and quickly, how you longed to have them back again!

Remember you cannot have an omelet without breaking the eggs. And if you will go tearing across the crust of this planet earth in automobiles at the rate of fifty miles an hour you cannot have your speed and enjoy your scenery too. And too late you will find that your emphasis is wrong—that the scenery is more than the speed.

The old Bible says, he that believeth shall not make haste. It's a pity. It proves you all a bad lot. It is a good idiom in Anglo-Saxon speech to say that a hasty man is a bad man. There is more meaning than we fancy in our connotation of a man who is swift, who is fast. Don't you see it? —Dan Crawford, Idealist and Missionary, Who Recently Completed Twenty-two Years of Christiantizing Work in Central Africa.

of evidence is that labor has not increased.

Of vital importance to the employees is the finding of the board that present schedules of pay are not to be changed or disturbed in any way where they exceed the amounts named in the award of equal importance is the finding that employees are not to be curtailed either in mileage or in hours of labor to offset the increased cost of living.

The railroads' contention that they are between two horns of a dilemma from which there is no apparent escape—that they must either raise rates or cease raising wages—is dismissed by the arbitrators with this assertion:

"This board believes that it must make its findings without any reference to the dilemma in which the railroads are evidently placed. The interstate commerce commission and not this arbitration board has the duty of determining whether the railroads can earn in addition to their own charges without an increase in rates, the rates of pay that this board believes at the present time is to be due to the conductors and trainmen."

However the board calls the attention of the interstate commerce commission to the decrease of hazard that follows the installation of steel cars, doubling tracking and improved signals. On this point the award says: "All these things cost in the aggregate an immense sum of money. Any policy that would make it impossible for the railroads to command this money would be a profound misfortune to the whole nation."

"Such a policy would be bad enough in its effect upon transportation, because it would reduce the efficiency of the railroads; but it would be criminal in the sense that it would make the great army of railroad employees, who are numbered by hundreds of thousands follow their hazardous occupations under conditions more hazardous than are necessary, and indeed, more hazardous than are justifiable in a country like this."

Accident Record a Disgrace

"The increasing safety of passengers is equally involved. No American reads the records of railroad accidents in the United States without feeling a sense of reproach. This board wishes to call the attention of the country to its belief that railroad accidents can be reduced almost precisely in proportion to the modernizing of the railroads and the improvement of their equipment."

The board of arbitrators consisted of W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and A. H. Smith, senior vice president of the New York Central for the railroads; Lucius B. Sheppard, senior vice president of the order of Railway Conductors, and Daniel C. Case of Cleveland, editor of the Railway Trainmen, for the men; and Seth Low former mayor of New York, and president of the National Civic Association, and Dr. John H. Finley, New York State commissioner of education, as neutrals. The arbitrators met here Sept. 11 and spent hearing witnesses for both sides. After October 11 the board held several protracted sessions in an effort to agree upon its report.

MORE RELIGION FOR THE NAVY.

Neglect of religion by the United States in its Navy is a reproach to the republic, Secretary Daniels declared at Newport News in an address before the United Brotherhood of Men's Bible Classes. The secretary announced that he would ask Congress immediately to provide chaplains and welfare secretaries proportionate to the Navy's personnel. Twenty-four chaplains, he said, are all that the Government now provides to look after the religious welfare of the Navy's 67,000 men, the number of chaplains not having been increased since 1842, when the personnel of the Navy numbered only 12,000 men. The secretary added that more than seventy-five important ships in the navy have no religious leader attached; while the Marine Corps, with an enrollment of 10,236 men, has not a single chaplain to look after the spiritual development of its personnel.

"I do not expect Congress to authorize the appointment of enough chaplains to assign one to every ship," Mr. Daniels said, "but I do believe the number will be substantially increased. And I shall urge that besides the additional chaplains, Congress appropriate a sufficient sum to enable the secretary to engage enough capable young religious leaders so that upon every ship there will be either a chaplain or a welfare secretary."

It is proposed to have the welfare secretaries on the ships perform duties similar to those of secretaries of the Young Men's Christian Association. They would lead in religious educational and athletic work among the enlisted men.

Here's A Smart Manufacturer!

After five years experiment he has evolved a certain article that he believes to be the best of its kind in the world.

He has tested it and feels sure of it, but before he spends a great sum of money he wants to feel out the public.

He has arranged for complete distribution in a group of cities near a metropolis and is going to begin a campaign of newspaper advertising in that territory.

He is going to tell the public what he has, and why it is better. The local dealers are going to show his goods.

He is not spending a great sum of money, but when he is through he will know what he can do.

Then if it is the success he anticipates, he is going to launch a co-operative newspaper campaign all over the country.

PRINTING ART IS BEING TAUGHT TO FILIPINOS

How the introduction of a vocational system of training in the bureau of printing of the Philippine government has resulted in instructing a large number of natives in the printing art and adding much to the general welfare of the islands is set forth in the last annual report of John S. Leech as director of printing in the Philippines, just received here.

As the result of this system an All-American force in the bureau of printing in 1902 has been changed to a force now composed of 94 per cent of Filipino workmen, thus giving the natives the opportunity to become proficient in their chosen trade. The system has been commended by leading educators and printing experts in all parts of the United States.

In a passage of the report headed, "The System in Tabloid" Mr. Leech says that it standardizes technical training by the adoption of a concise but comprehensive method of instruction, imparted in the orderly progression of an inviolable schedule. Thus the component parts of all the correlative branches of the printing trades are analyzed and the working operations of each of its divisions are segregated into specialties and sub-specialties. These in turn are grouped into classes, forming a systematic and coordinate sequence of instruction—a step by step advancement which is as necessary to the proper industrial education of a boy as are the finger exercises in the equipment of a finished technique by a musician.

Under this system the apprentices are graded into six classes, above which come the junior craftsmen. In the year ended June 30th last, twenty juniors advanced to the rank of craftsmen, and nineteen of class one were promoted to juniors. There was a similar advance all along the line and the total of 165 apprentices were distributed over all the divisions of the big plant.

The Filipino employees of the bureau also include 113 craftsmen, and from this rank it is that the bureau is able to honor all the requests of owners of commercial printing houses for workmen, trained craftsmen being allowed to resign in order to accept such employment.

"This," says Mr. Leech "would seem to be an unprofitable procedure, inasmuch as the bureau releases workmen at a time when they have probably attained their maximum productiveness, and upon whose education years of effort have been spent." However, the broader view is taken that in the course of time these trained workmen will be responsible for a higher standard of work among commercial printers, and their separation creates vacancies which afford opportunities for others to acquire a trade.

Only one recommendation is made by Mr. Leech in his work, and that has been made in every report since 1903—that a new building be provided for the bureau. He points out that there is much congestion, and that this can only be relieved by the provision of more floor space. Overtime and night work detrimental to health, and a cause of increase in the cost of operation are unavoidable, and in time, the present building is neither safe nor adequate as a public printing office.

WANT NAME "HILTON POINT"

Opposing Views on Altering a Part of Dover, N. H.

Dover, N. H., Nov. 10.—The question of changing the name of Dover Point to Hilton Point, the name by which that section of Dover was known from 1623 until 1633, is now before the City Councils for decision on a petition from the Society of Colonial Wars in New Hampshire. The society has appointed a committee to devise some way to get the old name restored.

The matter has been laid over until the December meeting of the City Councils to give the residents of Dover Point opportunity to express their views.

According to early records the place in question was changed from Milton to Dover in 1639, in 1640 to Northam, and in 1641 back to Dover. This included not only the original settlement at the point, but that at Quaker Falls, the heart of the city proper.

The changing of the name will involve changes in the official documents pertaining to that section in all future transactions of the city, as well as in private conveyances, and other papers of record. The Colonial Wars Society recognizes this and asks the City Councils to take these things into consideration. In its petition the society's committee states that up to three-quarters of a century ago the place was commonly, but not officially, called Hilton Point.

THE NAME "ARTHUR."

It Has a Wider Significance Than is Generally Supposed.

The New Life, the London organ of "the most ancient faith," gives its readers the following reconcile notes on the name "Arthur."

The name is not pronounced Arthur, but Ar-tu-r.

The "A" is added for pronouncing in an accentuated manner.

The "R" should be by itself and is pronounced like "are."

"R" signifies the head, and the second part of the name is "Th" or "Tau" or "Tor."

Arthur or Arthur is a telegraphing and is shown as R-T-H-A-U-R. It means the head of Thor or Tor—i.e., the head of the highest intelligence.

The Tharus or Thaurus of the east is similar to the Tharus or Torus of Ireland and Scotland.

They were the religious mendicants of the past who led the people rightly in the way of the most ancient faith. With the uprooting of the ancient idealism these mendicants gradually assumed a political mission because of their social power among the Celtic peoples.

The word Tory associated with modern politics has come from this. The word Tory, therefore, has a similar meaning to Arthur and implies "the party or people of divine intelligence."

The question of exporting arms to Mexico has raised the point in official circles of whether the President by executive authority would let down the bars, or whether action by congress would be necessary. NONE OF PRESIDENT HUERTA'S ACTS TO BE RECOGNIZED

England So Informed--Britons Resist Rumor That They Favor the Mexicans or Have Loaned Them Money.

London, Nov. 10.—Walter H. Page, United States Ambassador, today presented to the British Foreign Office another message from President Wilson, the general tenor of which is that under no circumstances will the President recognize Provisional President Huerta or any of his acts.

President Wilson's message is regarded here as in the nature of an interim report, not calling for a reply. Great Britain therefore awaits a more definite pronouncement from President Wilson, setting forth precisely the steps he proposes to take to enforce his policy, before sending a formal reply.

British officials are inclined to resent what they term the persistent misrepresentation of Great Britain's attitude current in the United States. They deny that any British money has been advanced to support Provisional President Huerta.

The message from President Wilson to the British Foreign Office was a verbal one.

EMBARGO ON ARMS STAYS

President Wilson: Still Opposed to Raising It—No Time Limit on Reply from Huerta.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Wilson decreed the Mexican situation today, and cleared the atmosphere of many reports as to the intention of the United States.

He made it clear that he had no intention, at present, of addressing the green, because the situation was not in shape for him to have anything to say, and that, while certain representations had been made to the Huerta Government, no reply had been received. He declared that no time limit had been set for a reply from Huerta.

The President told inquiries he was not ready to discuss recognition of the Constitutionalists, and that his opposition to raising the embargo on arms had not been changed.

A copy of the statement given to the diplomatic corps in Mexico City at midnight Saturday by President Huerta was received today at the State Department from Mr. O'Rourke, Secretary Bryan, who did not comment upon it, further than to say that he might dispatches from Mexico City described it accurately.

Informal comment on Huerta's statement, however emphasized that while the elections of the president and vice president were to be declared null and void, Huerta intended to consider the election of Congress valid.

By the Washington Government that is regarded as an inconsistency, of which foreign nations must take cognizance and the impression prevailed that the repudiation of all acts of the new Congress would be forthwith by the United States.

The President made it plain that foreign Governments had been fully advised within the last week of the steps taken by the United States, but that the future policy of this Government was dependent on further developments.

In discussing the Mexican situation with newspaper men, the President spoke especially against reports representing the situation as more serious than it was. Emotional reports, the President pointed out, embarrassed the task of the administration, especially when these reports predicted moves in advance of action by the administration.

One official, familiar with the exchanges with Huerta said today, that the latest representations from Washington were not such as to place President Wilson in the attitude of having said the last word if Huerta declined to abdicate.

It was said that the language of the last representations did not directly call upon Huerta to resign but made clear that if he had the good of Mexico at heart and really desired that one government in Mexico City be recognized by the United States, he would settle from the situation.

The communication is also understood to have indicated that if Huerta remained in power the United States would repudiate all his acts, as well as those of the new Congress.

Chairman Bacon of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who called at the White House early today, said this government would proceed cautiously, but with the same fixed purpose. An official statement was issued by Charge Alvarado of the Mexican Embassy, stating that on Nov. 20 next, the legislative power assumed by President Huerta will be reinstated and the new Congress will pass on the result of the Presidential election.

"The dispatches received by Senator Alvarado," says the statement, "and signed by Foreign Minister Madero, may be assumed represent the attitude of President Huerta, and indicate the nature of his reply to the inquiry of the Government of the United States regarding his purpose in view of the recent Presidential election."

"As the public realizes, the recent election was imperfect and, should the Mexican Congress so decide, in its wisdom, the Government will call a new election in constitutional form. The Government will proceed with its purpose to pacify the Nation as the imperative condition to a legal and valid election."

"The confidence is expressed by my Government that no obstacle will be interposed to complicate the situation or disturb the end designed for a valid choice of President."

GOVERNMENT'S ADVICE TO FRUIT GROWERS

Washington, Nov. 10.—Lifting their voices in chorus, two departments of the Government gave a long list of advice to American growers and exporters of fruits today. The Department of Agriculture advocated special legislation in fruit production, while the Department of Commerce urged more careful methods in marketing abroad.

"As the business aspects of fruit growing receive more definite recognition," declares the Department of Agriculture quoting from its Year Book, "varieties will be planted more and more to meet particular conditions and for special rather than for general purposes."

"The department looks on the future of the fruit industry with an optimistic eye. It believes that new and better varieties, or varieties better adapted to commercial needs will be developed as the market demand increases."

The Department of Commerce, in a special bulletin, also looks on the fruit industry with confidence in the future. The bulletin deals with the several kind of fruits, mostly in demand in the various nations, but the department adds:

"Of more vital importance, is the grower, packer and exporter, is the detailed information given in the bulletin, about kinds of fruit and size of packages preferred, native and foreign products supply and demand, tariff charges, shipping and packing hints, pure food regulations and names of importers and dealers."

THE MACHINISTS ORGANIZE A UNION

A meeting of the machinists of this city and vicinity was held on Monday evening at U. V. U. hall and despite the counter attractions there was a large delegation of workmen present and a temporary organization was perfected.

Frank Jennings of Boston, a vice president of the International and business agent of the Boston Union was the first speaker and he dwelt on the benefit of organization and of the success of the unions formed of navy yard workmen. Edward S. Arko, organizer of the International Association spoke on the plans for the new union and what had been done in other places where the unions were composed of navy yard and other Government workmen. Richard A. Cooney president of the Central Labor Union was also a speaker.

A temporary organization was made with fifty men on the charter list and it was voted to hold the charter open for 30 days.

The temporary officers elected were President Andrew Yull, Recording Secretary Harold H. Gile and Financial Secretary William F. Dunn. Another meeting will be held on Tuesday of next week.

TO PROPERLY PROTECT THE CANAL ZONE

Washington, Nov. 10.—Brigadier General George P. Scriven, U. S. A., chief of the United States Army Signal Corps, issued in the form of an order to the officers of the Army Aviation Corps the new requirements that must be met by those officers who desire to become attached to the flying arm of the service. These call not only for knowledge of the aeroplane and its operation, but also an ability to steer by compass, to read maps and familiarity with motors and engines, and more than ordinary skill as a mechanic. The new order, which becomes effective on Jan. 1 next, is as follows:

1. Make a cross-country flight over a triangular course not less than 100 miles in perimeter, with two intermediate landings; this flight to be completed within forty-eight hours after the start, the same machine being used during the flight.

2. Make a straightway cross-country flight, without landing, of at least sixty miles, over a previously designated course; return flight to be made either on the same day or on the first subsequent day that the weather permits.

3. During the flights prescribed in paragraphs 1 and 2, the candidate shall remain at least 1000 feet above the surface of the ground.

4. Make a flight during which the machine shall remain for at least 30 minutes at an altitude of between 2000 and 3000 feet above the surface of the ground. This requirement may be accomplished during one of the cross-country flights if practicable.

5. Execute a volplane, with motor shut out completely, at an altitude of 1500 feet, the motor to be cut out when aeroplane is over the landing field, and on landing cause the aeroplane to come to rest, within 300 feet of a previously designated point.

6. Reports will be submitted giving the main military features observed during the flights made under paragraphs 1 and 2.

7. No tests shall be made with passengers. Time of arrival at and departure from the various points may be attested by military or civil authorities; if none of them is present, by the aviators themselves.

8. The candidate will then be examined theoretically and practically on his ability to read road maps, his knowledge of the compass and how to steer thereby his knowledge of the aeroplane—i. e., what constitutes its construction; how to make ordinary repairs of an aeroplane; the action of the machine under ordinary flying conditions, covering the points on the action of the controls, how the angles of lift on the wings change in making turns, how the pressures change both on the main planes, rear elevator and vertical rudder, and what constitutes safe flying as far as gliding, banking, etc., are concerned.

He will be examined on his knowledge of gasoline motors, carburetors, the most common troubles that occur to motors and how to correct them. He shall be able to make simple repairs, disassemble and assemble motors and shall show a thorough knowledge of all motors in use at the school.

9. He shall be examined in meteorology and topography, in so far as they relate to aviation.

10. Any aviator who has gained his military aviator's certificate previously

DON'T LET YOUR HAIR SPEIL YOUR GOOD LOOKS

Take the right care of your hair and instead of spoiling your good looks it will improve them. You can't beautify your hair with barrettes and ribbons and such things. Knick-knacks make hair look even worse, because the contrast shows off its ugliness to greater effect.

If you want beautiful hair, soft, silky, lustrous and glossy—use Harmony Hair Beautifier, a dainty liquid hair dressing. Use it also if you want your hair to go into place—in waves, graceful, fashion—more easily, and stay where you put it. It overcomes the unpleasant, oily odor with a delightful rose fragrance. Very easy to apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of the hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few minutes. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd shaped, very ornamental bottles with spritzer tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way or your money back. Sent in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—one of the more than 7,000 leading drug stores of the United States, Canada and Great Britain, which own the big Harmony laboratories in Boston, where the famous celebrated Harmony Perfumes and Toilet Preparations are made.

to Jun. 1, 1914, and who is on duty with the aeronautical branch of the Signal Corps from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1914, and who during this period does not make flights the equal or better than those contained in paragraphs 1 to 5, and who does not show himself conversant with the repairs of motors and machine and general knowledge of them, will be required to pass the above tests.

The order has been submitted to Secretary of War Garrison and has been approved by him. It also meets the approval of the chief of every officer now connected with the aviation arm of the service.

KNIFE GRINDER UP TO DATE

"Have you noticed the transformation that has taken place in the methods employed by the grinders of scissors and knives?" inquired a man who noticed small things. "About a decade ago when the grinder came around he used to ring a bell as he walked and to shout, 'Knives sharpened, scissors sharpened!'"

"Some of the grinders about five years ago, wishing to be more up-to-date, cast aside the bell and equipped themselves with bugles. Then when the grinder came ambling down the street, with his grindstone and stand along over his shoulder, the customers were summoned by his bugle calls."

"Not long ago a crusade against unnecessary noises placed the ban on the bugles of the grinders. Nowadays one never hears that familiar call and one seldom notices a knife-grinder on the streets. The pedestrian grinders have vanished; they have been replaced with something more up to date."

"The modern grinder travels in a wagon drawn by a horse. The wagon is built specially for his use. Inside is an up-to-date outfit. The grinders are operated by a motor."

"The power grinder goes from house to house soliciting trade. Some families have a set date on which the grinder calls every month and keeps the cutlery in condition."—New York Sun.

CIVIL GOVERNOR APPOINTED IN THE PHILIPPINES

Manila, Nov. 10.—Gov. Harrison will leave here today for Mindanao, accompanied by Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, U. S. A., commander of the Philippine Department. It is generally expected that the result of a journey will be the appointment of a civil governor. The American troops have been withdrawn from that territory already.

The Philippines Commission is holding its sessions, without the presence of any American member, and many vacancies in the Government service will remain unfilled until the Governor General shall return.

Legal difficulties which have arisen in connection with the offices of acting secretaries have been referred to Washington, and the business of the departments is at a standstill pending the receipt of a reply.

THE HOUSE WITH THE GREEN DOOR

Lone is the house of my love,
The house with the green door
That opens to let my love in,
And opened never before.

It shut behind her that day;
In my face blew the bitter rain;
I cried aloud at the door,
Calling her name—in vain.

Oh! I went back through the rain
Strong the impulse that bore me,
Slinging the sleet in my face,
And chill the welcome before me.

It opened but once before,
Once it will open again.
The house with the green door,
And noiseless bolt and chain.

Many my fruitless journeys;
Yet sometime the light will burn,
And friends watch late in my house
And I shall not return.

I shall have found my welcome,
And a wide thrown green door;
And I will tarry in my love's house
Shut close for evermore.

The person referred to is employed on the railroad and the constant jolting and jarring of the cars weakened his kidneys. His back was very lame and at times his whole body became sore. Learning that Doan's Kidney Pills were a fine remedy for kidney complaint he procured a box at Philbrick's drug store and began using them. Before long a cure was effected and from that day to this, the kidney trouble has not returned. I also used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of lameness in my back and strengthened my kidneys."

BECOME A PHILIPPINE LUMBER KING

Washington, Nov. 10.—"Becoming a Philippine lumber king" is the burden of an invitation extended today by the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department to bidders who, if successful, will have to show a certified check for at least $50,000 before they can go to the islands and assume timber royalty.

The Government has 35,000 acres of timber containing approximately two billion board feet of lumber, which is anxious to have cut down and marketed. It is willing to grant a 20-year concession to bring about this result.

"In the four principal types of forest embraced in the area" say the Bureau officials, "much valuable material can be secured from even the most desirable type, and the most valuable type will, according to figures of the Bureau, provide a handsome profit for an outlay comparatively small in relation to the value of the timber which is to be exploited."

The prospectus declares the area presents ideal logging conditions, and points out that China and Japan afford markets for virtually all the lumber produced. The successful bidder for the concession must have funds sufficient—not less than $50,000—with which to begin work at once. The bids are to be opened in Manila, Dec. 10, but the Bureau expresses its willingness to postpone the opening until all bids that have been mailed are received at the Bureau.

DECLINE OF THE DOG

Four Footed Friend and Servant of Man Being Eliminated by Inventions

In cities and perhaps in the country also the dog is not so universal as he was says the Vancouver Sun. For this elimination of the dog the common place times and the plague of mechanism are to blame.

He was not only the satellite of man but was the friend and companion of the horse. The carriage and horses have been discarded and it would be a supernatural dog who could successfully attend a motor car on its flight. From the half tamed wolf who was subjugated by primitive man with the whip and assisted him in the chase, the dog has become domesticated and since has been the friend of man as well as the angel servant who performed many useful duties. So much a part of the life of man and human affairs has become that we witness the decline with sorrow and qualms. It is a lamentable thing that this noble creature who has shared the domestic life from the beginning of history, should be defeated by the civilization he has assisted to accomplish. But it seems no doubt that

There are fewer men cherishing dogs on the countryside and in cities, for one citizen who maintains a dog there are fifty who do not.

This is only another of the results of the materialism which has swept like a freshet over the modern world within the last few years. The decline of the horse is another. Neither the horse or the dog will have a place in the supercivilization which is coming to cities. In the rustic world the dog will continue to give pleasure and service to man but in far lesser numbers. But what the dog loses numerically he may gain in position. The dog has developed as the horse has developed physically and mentally, and the dog may become less inferior or in more ways superior. Lack of power of speech is now the dog's only inferiority to a great number of men and since silence is one of the greatest virtues, this is doubtful inferiority.

Few of mankind realize the virtues of the dog, and few esteem him sufficiently or commend him enough or attribute to him the credit he deserves for his accomplishments in the service of man. The benefits conferred upon man by the dog began in the earliest time of man's occupation of the earth and have continued to the present day. In the pursuit of game the dog has played the foremost part, and in the protection of property while his master slumbers, this wakeful and alert creature performs the duties of a watchman. In man's restless travels over the earth and explorations of his farthest places, the dog has been his companion and slave, and frequently by sacrificing his life when the provisions ran low, has saved the lives of his masters.

The discontinuance of the custom of keeping dogs in cities is easily understood. Dogs are not being popularly but a dog cannot be confined to a house or a narrow lot. It must be allowed to run at large upon the streets, and the modern city streets is not a healthy place for dogs. The increase of wheeled vehicles and the velocity at which traffic moves through the streets, have multiplied the perils of the highway, and even the most intelligent dog is in grave danger. An accident to a dog brings distress, and many people who would like to keep dogs are willing to do so for this reason. Moreover the efficiency of the city police force has done away with the necessity of keeping dogs for protective purposes.

In this country the change in farming methods has eliminated the dog in many localities. There are many modern farmers who do not keep a dog about the place. The keeping of hunting dogs is not so common on account of the severity of the game laws, and the shrinking of the hunting grounds. Fox hunting, one of the most picturesque and striking sports has decreased, even in the home of the fox hound, England. In America the music of the pack and the scarlet coats of the riders are seldom heard of. Only in a few places in the United States and Canada do men and women still romantically ride after the hounds in the hunting field.

SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT HIM

Pick out the folks you like the least, and watch 'em for a while; They never waste a kindly word, they never waste a smile; They criticize their fellow men at every chance they get; They never found a human just to suit their fancy yet; From them I guess you'd learn some things, if they were pointed out. Some things that every one of us should know a lot about.

When some one "knocks" a brother pass around the loving cup. Say something good about him, if you have to make it up.

It's safe to say that every man can make good use of good. That he would fain exhibit to his fellows if he could. The kindly deed in many a soul are liberating there. Awaiting the encouragement of other souls that dare. To show the best that's in them, and a universal move. Would start the whole world moving in a hopeful, hopeful groove. Say something sweet to paralyze the "knocker" on the spot. Speak kindly of his victim if you know the man or not.

The eyes that peer and peer to find the worst a brother holds; The tongue that speaks in bitterness, that frets and fumes and scolds; The hands that bruise the fallen, though their strength was made to raise. The weaklings who have stumbled at the parting of the ways— All these should be forgiven, for "they know not what they do." Their hindrance makes a greater work for wiser ones like you. So when they scourge a wretched one whose drained sin's bitter cup, Say something good about him if you have to make it up.

INCOME BY ALIMONY LATEST TAX PROBLEM

Alimony! How shall it be taxed under the income tax provisions of the tariff law?

This is one of the intricate problems before the income tax division of the internal revenue bureau in interpreting the law and establishing regulations.

While no determination of the many questions connected with this item has yet been reached it will probably be considered at considerable length in the general regulations governing the collection of the income tax from individuals.

If Frederick Pinney Barle—"Affinity" and Nat Goodwin, the comedian and other numerous divorced men are paying their former wives sums of alimony in excess of the legal exemption, shall they deduct one per cent of every dollar over $3000 as paid out by them to each wife, withholding the tax at the source of the income? If the tax is held by a double taxation on the same amount, if it were not considered to be an expense properly deducted from the income of the payer of alimony?

An investigation of the epidemic of typhoid fever, which developed among members of the Newport Artillery Company, after they returned from the Perry centennial celebration at Put-in-Bay in September, was begun yesterday. Six deaths from the disease occurred among members of the Rhode Island party in different sections of the state and half a hundred persons have been ill. The investigation was conducted by Dr. Hugh De Vallin of the surgeon general's office, United States Public Health Department, and Dr. Gardner T. Swartz, secretary of the Rhode Island State Board of Health. They questioned and examined members of the company for two hours, directing their inquiries particularly as to the possible sources of infection.

THAW GIVEN ANOTHER WEEK OF GRACE

Concord, Nov. 10.—The state of New York, by Bernard Jacobs, its New Hampshire representative, has filed in the office of the clerk of the United States district court in this city a motion to dismiss the habeas corpus proceeding in the case of Harry K. Thaw. The motion is not accompanied by any reasons therefor. It is probable that a preliminary hearing will be held in Concord the first of next week at which arrangements will be made for taking up the whole matter, including the amendment to Thaw's petition in regular order some ten days later. Judge William A. Stone has arrived here from Harrisburg, Pa., to take charge of the proceedings in the federal courts in Thaw's behalf.

THE PASSING

A Tribute to the Late Levi Woodbury Lord.

How often in these, our twilight days, comes the sorrowful flitting. Another friend has completed life's journey. Has reached the river bank and crossed to the beyond, gone into the land of silence leaving behind the fragrance of sweet memories. Memories that will ever linger, in Levi Woodbury Lord, my loss is of a life long friend, and the affection existing between us grew stronger, sweeter with abiding years. Way back in the boyhood days he was playmate, school mate, we shared our joys and sorrows together, and so it continued up to the time when we started out to win our way in life's battles. Once or twice we met together in New York city, but he did not stay long there, coming back to the old town by the sea to make his life stand. Then came the call of his country in its distress, and nobly, he, as well as many of Portsmouth's sons, responded to the call of duty. The years of separation lengthened well on to a half century before my wandering foot-steps brought me back to the old home to the memory of boyhood friends (coming up vividly to me, first of all Woodbury Lord, and I recall the gladness at our meeting after this long lapse of years, the boy grown to manhood went along with the evening of life, long and earnestly we gazed in each other's face, the flood of recollections coming back to us. The extended hand, the warm firm hand grasp, the mutual exclamation "Woo-Sam." So glad to see you again. It revealed the old time affection had not died out. We were boys again. So we were in the spirit. My visits to the old town have been more frequent of late years. One of the greatest pleasures of these visits was to seek out Woodbury and just he boys again. My visit the past summer I found Woodbury just the shadow of his former self, weak and suffering pain, both he and his dear wife. It was a sorrowful household but it was inspiring to note their patience, their cheerfulness in their distress. And to me it seemed the lovable traits of youth developed a man a manly man who lived his course and calmly awaits the masters' call. My last call so intended, was the day before I was to leave the town but Woodbury pleaded he would like to ride into town next morning, to see me once more for as he said, "It may be our last meeting." We really felt it in our last hand-grasp. To his dear wife, their children in this, their hour of affliction, I tendered heartfelt sympathy, the softening influence of time assuages grief, but Ah! how blessed is memory. Memories of dear ones gone before, in my friend of the living years. Hall and Parwell in his life and life's ending it recalls the beautiful lives of Tennessee. Sunset and evening star And one clear call for me, And may there be no meaning of the bar, When I put out to sea.

INVESTIGATE TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

SUPPLIES FOR MILITARY SCHOOLS

Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, is considering a recommendation from Colonel J. E. It is understood that Colonel McMahon's recommendation finds favor with the military authorities. The general contents that it would promote uniformity in the equipment of students receiving military instruction and encourage competition to city.

WOMAN FOUND AT HAMPTON BEACH

Nothing on Her Person to Establish Identity.--Believed to Have Come
From Some Mill City on the Merrimac River

At an early hour this morning one of the outmen attached to the Hampton Beach Life Saving Station, was patrolling the beach he discovered the headless body of a woman lying on the beach. He quickly communicated the fact to Captain Smart, the keeper of the station, who in turn notified Superintendent Harding of this city.

Superintendent Harding directed that the body be taken care of until the arrival of Medical Referee Sherburne from this city.

The place where the body was found was some distance to the southward of the station on the long strip of beach.

This morning Referee Sherburne made an inspection of the body. There was nothing to indicate the identity of the drowned woman, who to all appearances had been in the water from three to four weeks time. The woman was apparently about thirty years of age, slightly above the average height. Her clothing would indicate that she was a working girl, and the belief is expressed by the life savers that she belonged to some of the mill cities on the Merrimac river.

Her head was gone both hands and a portion of the forearm. The body was destitute of any shirt waist, the woman wearing a cheap pair of corsets, a blue outer skirt, a black and white undershirt, tea stockings and black high boots. A box partially filled with snuff was found in her stocking, also her purse, which contained some over $1 in money.

There was nothing to indicate that death had been caused otherwise than by accidental drowning, and after viewing the body, Dr. Sherburne ordered it turned over to Undertaker L. S. Jones of Hampton for burial.

MODERNIZING ENGLISH STUDY.

That the teaching of English in the high school needs thorough reorganization to bring it into touch with modern social and industrial demands is frankly stated by Professor James M. Hoole, of Chicago Teachers' College, in a report just published by the United States Bureau of Education. The report contains preliminary suggestions for a course in English that will meet present-day requirements.

In this course English composition will be limited to subjects for speaking and writing which can be made to appeal to young people, according to Dr. Hoole. "In both composition and literature there will be a shift of emphasis towards those subjects and activities that are of greatest value in actual life—for example, oral expression—and towards modern books and periodicals. It is not to be inferred, however, that the supreme values inherent in the world's literary masterpieces will be overlooked."

A fairly heavy task in character-training as well as in the mechanics of English is put upon the teacher by the makers of the new course. "Broadly speaking," says the report, "it should be the purpose of every English teacher first to quicken the spirit and kindle the mind and imagination of his pupils, and to develop habits of weighing and judging human conduct with the home of leading them to higher living; second, to supply the pupils with an effective tool for use in their future private and public life—i.e., the best command of language which, under the circumstances, can be given them."

The report then gives an outline of the proposed English instruction from the seventh grade through the high school. This revision of the high school course in English is part of a complete reorganization of secondary education planned by a committee of the National Education Association. Preliminary statements for the different subjects have just been issued by the United States Bureau of Education.
